

What is The Accredited Network (TAN)?

TAN is a group of affiliated experts in every respective field of personal finance. Only financial experts who meet very high standards of ability and integrity are invited to join this network. TAN is designed to support the Financial FastTrack (FFT) process by giving clients access to the very best financial specialists in the industry. You will not find any “jack-of-all-trade” advisors in TAN. Instead, each expert advisor has a demonstrated history of excellence and knowledge in his or her own particular field.

What is the Purpose of TAN?

TAN was created so that The Financial FastTrack (FFT) would have a source of specialized experts to draw on in order to transfer the client’s customized financial blueprint into the real world. Most financial programs only offer a small part of the picture. For example, many programs will teach financial principles, but offer no immediate way of implementing what is learned. Other programs teach financial techniques and strategies, but once the program ends, the participant still does not understand the underlying principles that govern those strategies, and are therefore unable to apply the strategies successfully in real life. FFT offers both the principles and philosophy from your FFT Advisor and the customized implementation of those principles utilizing TAN experts.

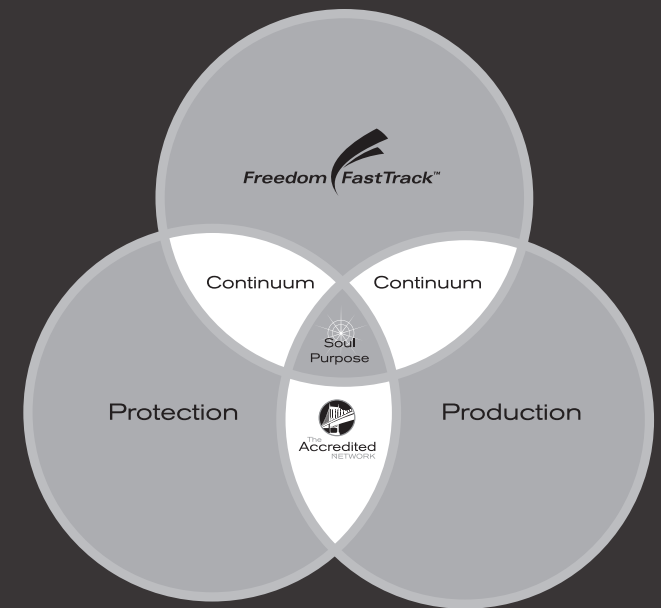

What Makes TAN Different from Other Financial Consultants?

Generally, in the financial world, people get a license to sell particular products. When they interact with clients it’s a very transactional relationship, which means that it’s not about the client’s objectives—it’s about the advisor wanting to sell certain products. The unofficial financial industry mantra is “never leave money on the table”, which basically means that even if an advisor is not the most qualified person to handle a certain aspect of someone’s finances, they should handle any transaction they are licensed for in order to collect more of a commission. Afterwards there is little accountability, since it is not illegal to sell people things they don’t need, or for someone to act like he or she knows more than they really do.

The Financial FastTrack process, on the other hand, ensures that you are not limited in your options. Your FFT advisor will carefully consider your unique financial blueprint and will then refer you only to highly specialized experts within The Accredited Network based upon your perspective, purpose and plan.

The Financial FastTrack Continuum

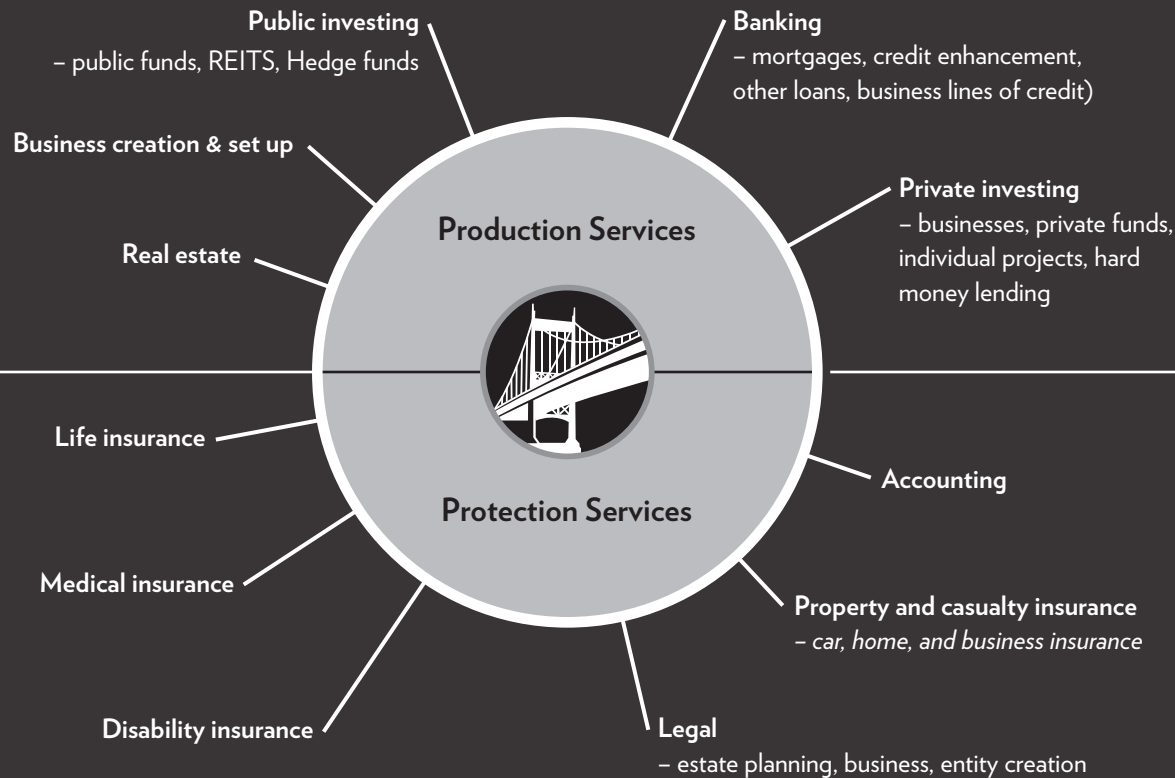

The Accredited Network is an integral part of the Financial FastTrack process. Working with The Accredited Network allows you and your FastTrack Advisor to turn your ideas and desires into reality. Unlike any other financial plan out there, this effective and synergistic system puts your very own unique Soul Purpose at the center of your plan where it belongs.

By addressing both the Protection and the Production components of your financial blueprint, The Accredited Network gives you concrete and practical ways to create lasting peace of mind (security), while also increasing your financial prosperity (cash flow).

CREATE YOUR OWN BOARD OF EXPERT ADVISORS. All top achievers understand this truth: No one can be a true expert in every field. So what do they do? They capitalize on the knowledge of those who have already paid the price to become highly skilled within each field of personal finance. The Accredited Network allows you to instantly capitalize on the knowledge that took others years of time, energy, and expense to obtain. Working with The Accredited Network ensures that both the protection and production aspect of your personal finances are optimally aligned to give you greater financial peace of mind and increased prosperity.

What good would it do you...

to go out and get separate watch components that do not fit well together? No matter how fine the pieces are separately, they won't function properly together if they weren't designed to complement each other. Likewise you can have a great attorney, a great accountant, and a great investment advisor, but if they aren't operating from the same philosophical platform to serve you, then your financial blueprint will not function as well as it could, which ends up costing you time and money. The Accredited Network advisors are highly specialized in what they do, but they share the same foundational understanding of wealth creation. This ensures that your plan and products work together in a seamless and beneficial fashion.
